DISCUSSION SUGGESTIONS

- Take on the thought ‘There’s a burglar in my house!’ and consider how that thought makes you feel; now challenge that thought, changing it to ‘I’m sure it’s just that rotten dog.’ Does this second thought result in different feelings?
- Brainstorm some other real-life instances where people might have a variety of reactions to the same event.
- Brainstorm a list of events that have the potential to cause stress and anxiety (e.g. sudden illness, exams, asking someone for a date, auditions or sports tryouts). But remember the amount of stress and anxiety you feel is linked directly to how you think about the event. So changing the way you think is the most effective way to control your feelings and actions, and thus reduce stress and anxiety. If time permits, brainstorm some potentially helpful self-talk for some of these generated events.
