

Communication – Unit 1

Activity 2: Filters Cue Cards

ACTION

Give each performing partner a Cue Card (one for Character A and one for Character B) from the same scenario. Do not allow them to read each other's Cue Card.

Scenario 1 Character A Your friend Character B has some news, but your stomach aches so badly you hunch over in pain.	Scenario 1 Character B You just heard that the band you're in has signed up for a series of paid gigs – you want to share the news!	Scenario 2 Character A Put your hands firmly over your ears and do not remove them during the role-play.	Scenario 2 Character B You need your friend's opinion on whether the school's sports camp last year was worthwhile.
Scenario 3 Character A You are in a foul mood (you've lost your wallet with nearly $100 in it). You're trying to listen anyway.	Scenario 3 Character B You have just met a new girl/guy and want to tell your friend all the things you like about this person.	Scenario 4 Character A You really need Character B's help with a charity drive, but you feel nervous around them.	Scenario 4 Character B You are in a bit of a hurry, but Character A has asked for a moment of your time.
Scenario 5 Character A You want to ask Character B to play guitar at your party, but you are positive he/she won't want to.	Scenario 5 Character B Character A has asked you here to 'get your thoughts on something'.	Scenario 6 Character A You are very expressive and loud, and want to tell your friend about a fireworks show.	Scenario 6 Character B You are a quiet person who is easily startled by loud, aggressive people.
Scenario 7 Character A You are a very softly-spoken, shy person. You want to tell your friend about a new TV show you like.	Scenario 7 Character B Your friend wants to tell you something – you have only a minute before your bus is due.	Scenario 8 Character A You think Doctor Who is the dumbest, most boring, childish and lame-brained show on TV. Right?	Scenario 8 Character B You are a big fan of Doctor Who. You also really like Character A and want to be lifelong friends.